RAIL PROGRESS SPECIAL TRAIN HERE TUESDAY

When the Service Progress Special, big educational train of the New York Central lines, comes into Elyria Tuesday evening it will bring speakers connected with the two leading agricultural organizations of Ohio, and it will also show motion pictures which demonstrate various interesting things such as shipping fruits, livestock and operating and building engines and cars.

The exhibition is free to the public and it was stated by a representative of the N. Y. C. lines from the New York office, who was in Elyria Friday that it is hoped all residents of Elyria as well as persons in the farming area around the city will go through the train. All will be welcome. The train will be open to visitors from 7 p. m to 10 p. m.

The special started two weeks ago on a tour of all the N. Y. C. lines. This will be concluded, it is believed, not before the first of November. Twenty-seven days are being spent in Ohio alone.

Civic organizations are visiting the train at its various stops and in many cases officials of the railroad traveling with the Special have been invited to speak at meetings of Rotary, Kiwanis and Exchange Clubs. The train will be in Toledo Saturday when a delegation, including the trustees, of the Chamber of Commerce, will inspect the large exhibit. Several hundred Toledo Boy Scouts have also signified their intention of visiting the Special. In Bryan Friday the Scout band met the train, when it entered the city, with music.

The Service Progress special is said to carry the most complete railroad museum ever assembled. It is a train of 13 units. The last two are living cars for the crew. The train is hauled by an enormous modern engine, the last word in locomotion. Behind this is the famous Engine No. 999 which won the world's record for speed thirty years ago and is still a serviceable engine. Behind this is the picturesque old Dewitt Clinton, built nearly 100 years ago, and the oldest engine of the N. Y. C. lines. These engines are followed by the tax car, called Mrs. Jarley's Tax Works, which gives many facts and figures on Ohio's debt and the tax question.

The car containing the Warther models, replicas of engines from the small "Tea Kettle" devised by Sir Isaac Newton to the newest type locomotive is perhaps the most popular car. Ernest Warther who built these engines travels

HARDING AGAINST OPEN SHOP PLANK IN 1924 PLATFORM

GARDINER, Mont., June 30.—President Harding has served notice on some of the influential leaders on the republican party that he, as titular leader of the party and probable nominee at the next national convention, will not stand for an "open shop" plank in the 1924 platform.

This was the interpretation placed today by friends upon the president's remarkable speech last night at Helena, in which he dealt with the capital and labor problem with a great deal more frankness than has characterized his previous utterances upon this controversial subject.

It is an open secret that the movement for an "open shop" and law and order declaration in next year's republican platform has gained considerable headway in some influential sections of party. One of the leaders in this movement has been General Charles G. Dawes, of Chicago, and he has been supported by many big manufacturers.

Definite Position

During the Harding trip to Florida last spring, General Dawes discussed it with the president and with newspaper correspondents on numerous occasions.

President Harding was noncommittal at that time, but in his Helena speech he chose to answer the anti-labor faction of the party and his utterances is expected to act as a decided check on the movement in general.

"I am quite aware," said the president, "that there were some who imagined then the present administration was voted into responsibility, that it was going at least to acquiesce if not definitely sympathize with projects for the deflation if labor and the overthrow of labor organizations. Nothing has been farther from the purpose of the administration than any thought of destroying the right of either capital or labor to organize and each to deal in its organized capacity.

"In this connection let me say frankly, I know there were some elements which hoped for a great and decisive conflict between organized employment and organized labor.

"On the capital side were those who hoped the administration would lend itself to the program of breaking down organized labor and sending it back to the era of individual bargaining for the individual job.

"On the labor side were those who hoped, by exorbitant demands and an attitude of uncompromising insistence, to force the nationalization of some of our most important industries and services.

"We have saved the nation from the extremists of both sides."

Furthermore, Mr. Harding declared in effect, that those industrial leaders who believe "wages must come down" to their pre-war status are doomed to disappointment.

"Wages the world over went to new high levels," said the president

"There was a levelling up from the lower strata and downward from the higher. On the whole the results marked a long advance on the road to equity and justice as among all elements of the community.

Jaunts Thru Park

"We know now that the advances thus affected in the direction of social justice and economic quality will not be relinquished without the old opposition. There were those who regarded the injustices of the old order as inevitable, and mistakenly assumed that by the simple process of the deflation of labor the old relationships could be soon restored.

"Let me tell you we shall not go back to the time when a considerable element in the community assumed that a sharp line of demarcation should be drawn between capital and labor. Labor is fast becoming the financier and backer of its own employment."

Today the president deserted the speaking platform for a two day jaunt through Yellowstone National Park. Early this morning the presidential party left the train at this small station and started in motor cars for Mammoth Hot Springs, from there to Old Faithful inn in the upper geyser basin for lunch.

The president has been promised some trout fishing in the streams of the park. The party will spend the night at the inn and resume the motor inspection of the park Sunday. Late Sunday night Mr. Harding will come out of the park and resume his westward speaking trip to Spokane, Portland and Tacoma.

MANY PLAN TO ENTER AMERICA

Sixteen Ships With 13,778 Aliens Await Midnight in Immigration Rush — Five Other Ships in Derby

NEW YORK, June 30.—With 16 foreign liners anchored off Ambrose Light today, ship captains jockeyed for positions in the great "immigration derby" to be run tonight.

Aboard the 16 ships are 13,778 aliens from 20 countries, who, with the opening of the new fiscal year at midnight, will seek admission to American citizenship.

A few minutes before midnight each of the liners will pull anchor and head toward the narrows for quarantine station, the finish line in the race.

Under the American immigration law only three percent of any nation's total population will be admitted to the United States each year. This total is divided ino 12 groups one for each month.

Many countries have an entry list of less than 100 a month. The first ship in, after midnight, may not carry more than the alloted monthly quota for a country. All over the number allowed will be sent back to their home lands.

The vessels today were resting with boilers burning "full steam ahead." The Polonia of the Baltic American line, is now in first position, having arrived two days ago. Its passengers are chiefly Poles and Russians.

The English boats will bring in 2,300 immigrants, German ships 7,500 and Italian vessels 5,000. The Greek lines will carry about 1,000 passengers.

Five other liners are within a day of New York, racing westward with approximately 6,000 additional immigrants.

FRENCH SENTENCE SEVEN GERMANS TO DIE FOR SABOTAGE

AMSTERDAM, June 30.—A more rigorous French policy towards Germans in the Ruhr was seen today in the action of the French military tribunal at Dusseldorf in sentencing seven Germans to death for sabotage.

Up to the present only one German has been executed by a French firing squad since the Ruhr was occupied six months ago.

Many Germans are still in jail awaiting trial on various charges.

ROME, June 30.—Relations between France and the vatican were strained almost to the breaking point today as a result of French displeasure over Pope Pius XI's Ruhr note.

M. Jonnart suddenly cancelled his propsed reception to the Catholic cardinals. This was attributed to the antagonistic attitude of the French government towards the papal note.

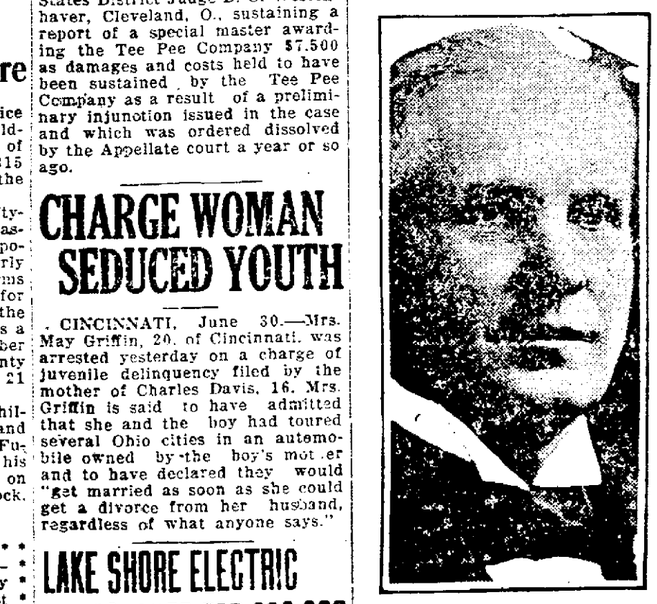

It is possible that M. Jonnart may retire as French ambassador to the vatican.

Many Italian papers praise the note as a favorable move towards settlement of the Ruhr problem. There is a feeling in vatican circles that the note was "interpreted in the wrong spirit."

LONDON, June 30.—Foreign office officials this afternoon denied that Great Britain had inspired Pope Pius XI's Ruhr note. Such a report had been circulated.

France's reply to Great Britain's reparations memorandum requesting further enlightenment upon the Franco-Belgian policy in the Ruhr, particularly the French definition of "German passive resistance" is expected next week.

BOOZE MAKER IS PAROLED

In Judge Webber's court this morning an unusual sight took place when Patrick Vasue, of Brownhelm, appeared before him to ask for a parole. Vasue was fined $1,000 a few days ago for the illicit possession of liquor. Accompanying him this morning was his wife and six barefooted children. They were a fine looking bunch of little ones, and any one would be proud to have such a nice family. Neighbors had raised $300 which they paid into court, and Vasue promised that he would not drink any more. Judge Webber on those conditions paroled him, and Vasue and his wife both thanked him for his leniency.

REFUSES TO EAT OR DRINK

Scent Plot to Cheat Electric Chair; Over Three Days Without Food

CLEVELAND, June 30.—Ninety hours of hunger strike has considerably weakened John L. Whitfield, to be tried here July [illegible] the murder of Patrolman [illegible] Griffin, the authorities said today.

Whitfield even refused water and coffee today upon which he has been sustained since his arrest in Detroit Tuesday night.

The prosecutng attorney declared it was "up to Whitfield" whether or not he eats and that for the present no attempt to forcefully feed him will be made.

Wild talk of the prisoner indicates he will attempt to cheat the authorities out of a possible judgment in case of conviction. An extra guard was placed outside of Whitfields cell to stop a feared attempt at suicide.

Two important developments marked the case today. Whitfield is said to have admitted he secured a revolver before he left his home with Griffin on the day of the shooting. Coroner A. P. Hammond asserted it would have been impossible for Griffin to accidentally shoot himself under the conditions.

Whitfield gave an order to his attorneys to collect what money had been taken from him on arrest as a first payment on attorneys fees. This gave rise to the report that Mrs. Whitfield had deserted her husband in his fight for life.

The prisoner's physical and mental condition today was at a much lower ebb than when he was brought here Wednesday. At times he is apparently overpowered with fear.

SPORT SNAP SHOTS
BY JACK KEENE

Good management and good luck are important factors in a fighter's success. Often good luck is of more importance than ability. This is shown by the fact that men like Johnny Wilson, Al McCoy, Battling Siki and other second raters have won championships while scores of great fighters have never been able to annex a title.

Sam Langford, now at the end of his fistic career, is broke, down and out. The Boston "Tar Baby" comes close to being the greatest fighter of his weight that ever lived. Perhaps he was the greatest, for Sam did not have a weakness, yet he never won a title. He never won one because he never got a chance to fight for a championship.

Jack Johnson held the heavyweight title during most of the time that Langford was at the top of his form. Nothing could induce Johnson to give Langford a chance. He had met Sam in 1906 when Langford was only a middleweight and had experienced so much trouble that Jack resolved never to enter the ring with him again.

Packey McFarland was one of the great boxers who never held a title. McFarland could have had the welterweight title for the asking. All he had to do was announce that he meant to defend the title and he would have been recognized as the champion, because there was no one capable of disputing the issue with him.

McFarland said that he did not want a title because he would not then be free to make matches to suit himself, but would have to fight the men selected for him. He was a very skillful match-maker and he generally had the bout won before he signed articles. The fact that champions had to box twenty rounds in those days also had a great deal to do with McFarland's resolve to have nothing to do with a title. Packey did not like to go over ten rounds.

Why Mike Gibbons never won a title is something of a mystery. Proclaimed one of the greatest boxers the ring ever saw, Gibbons flourished at a time when the other middleweights amounted to nothing. They were so bad that a third rater like Al McCoy was able to win the title and he passed it on to Mike O'Dowd, who was just a little better.

Tom Gibbons now is a candidate for both the light heavyweight and the heavyweight championships, but he is not pressing his claims with any great amount of vigor. Tom is getting well along in years and he soon will be on the down grade and yet he shows no more impatience than if he had all his life before him.

Pal Moore, the Memphis bantam, is an example of hard luck. Pal defeated four champions, Williams Herman, Buff and Lynch in no decision bouts, but he never could get any of them to give him a championship match. Moore now has passed the crest of his career.

Carl Tremaine probably is the best bantam in the ring to-day. He has not had a chance to prove it because none of the recent bantam champions wanted any part of his game. But Tremaine is young and his ability is just becoming generally recognized. He is sure to get his chance before long.

Going back to the old times, Young Griffo was an example of bad management. Griffo is generally considered to be the cleverest boxer that ever pulled on a glove. If he had possessed a manager who forced him to train it would have been an easy matter for him to have won the title.

Jack Blackburn was one of the wonders of the ring who never won a title. Blackburn compared favorably with Dixon, Gans, Wolcott and the other great negro boxers of his time. Under pressure he was able to make the lightweight limit and yet he beat good men in all the divisions up to the heavyweight class.

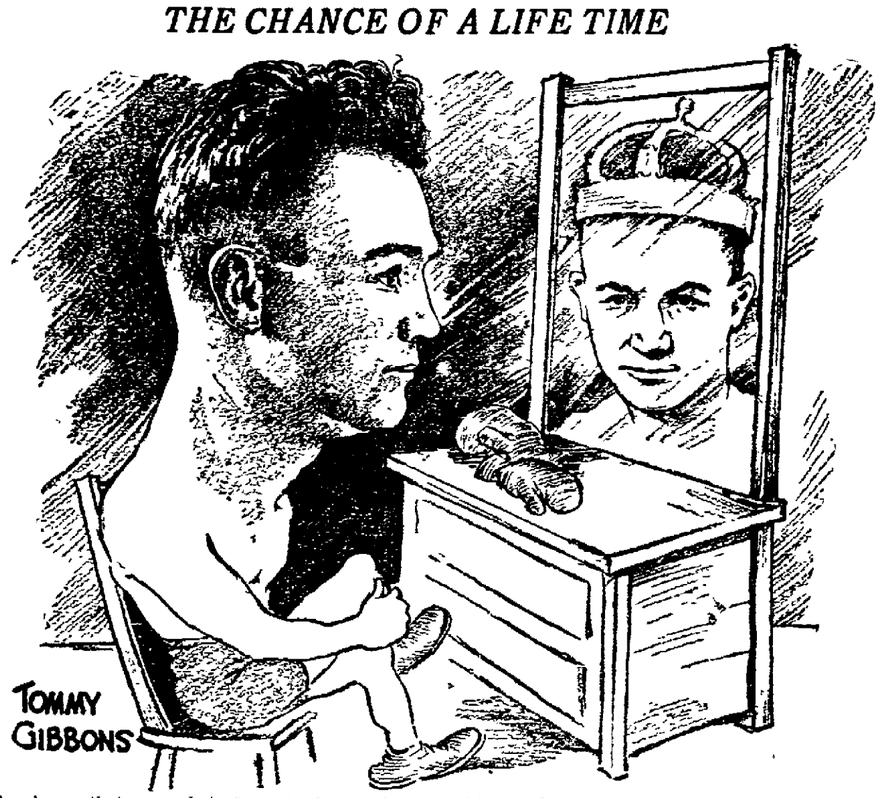

WILL SPEED AND SCIENCE WIN HEAVY TITLE AGAIN?

Will Jack Dempsey, slugger par excellence that he is, go down before the speed and science of the challenger Tom Gibbons, just as other heavy champs have bowed before the same combination? Heavyweight battles of recent years give Gibbons the edge. Johnson's craft and skill beat the powerful Jeffries. Dempsey's speed and shifty style spelled Willard's doom. This was not true in the Willard-Johnson fight but in that battle youth and clean living alone were enough to turn the tide.

THE CHANCE OF A LIFE TIME

The chance that comes but once in a lifetime to a few of the favored ones in the fight world, is before Thomas Gibbons of St. Paul A few days hence he will step into the ring with the world before him—with the chance of climbing out of the squared circle with the heavyweight championship of the world his

For over 100 years—about 107—America has had heavyweight battles. And in the elapsing century an army of men has sought the most coveted honor in the sport world—and but few of them have won it. Hundreds won enough fame and attention to demand a crack at the title—got it—lost—and slipped into oblivion

According to history the first battle for a heavyweight title—the championship of America—was staged in New York City in 1816 Jacob Hyer and Thomas Beasley were the participants and Hyer won the figh and title

Dull Days for Champs.

And those who talk of the inactivities of the heavy kings today may well read that Hyer spent the next four years in idleness and then retired The heavy crown gathered dust for 20 years until Tom son of the champion Hyer, claimed the title and after defending it for six years put it on the shelf where it lay another six years

From that time on, however, the head wearing the heavyweight headgear has been somewhat uneasy John L Sullivan gave the crown its longest rest when he defended it successfully for ten years

Modern Rules Since '89.

The champions, in the order of their reign runs about like this After the Hyers came John Morrissey, John C Heenan, Joe Coburn, Bill Davis, James Dunn, Mike McCoole, Charles Gallagher, Tom Allen, Joe Goss Paddy Ryan, Sullivan, Corbet, Fitzsimmons Jeffries, Tommy Burns, Jack Johnson Jess Willard and then the present king.

The present style of boxing—gloved hands and Marquis of Queensbury rules,—has been in vogue since 1889 It began, say old timers, with the memorable battle between John L and Jake Kilrane at Richburg, Miss, July 8, 1889 That little fracas went 75 rounds and Sullivan won.

The king in every class of fistiana draws the limelight The boxing histories tell of great little men along with the great big men but the heavyweight division draws the lion's share of attention For the heavyweight monarch is king of them all

That is why men train months for a crack at the title—and risk all on one shot at the crown

Tommy Gibbons is the man of the hour now His chance is at hand. It may be in his dreams he feels the jeweled headpiece resting on his head Probably the crown is there as he looks into his dressing room

What will he make of his ONE GREAT CHANCE

WESTERNS TO PLAY EAGLES ON SUNDAY; 2 TEAMS DROP OUT

But one game will be played at Cascade park Sunday afternoon. The East Side Cubs and the Richwines became discouraged on account of reverses and have decided to quit for the present at least.

However, the Western Automatics and the Eagles are still going strong, and they will oppose each other Sunday. Both teams have been strengthened for Sundays game, and a sterling good contest is looked for.

Manager Hiscox is much pleased with the way his boys have been going lately. They have fielded and batted well and are strong in the box. Bruce is pitching the best ball of his career at present, and Campbell is also doing well. The Eagles have also won a majority of their games and are going out for Sunday's game with a sterling line up. The followers of the two teams will be on hand Sunday, and expect to see one of the best games of the season.

Last Nights Fights

ERIE, PA.: Carl Tremaine, Cleveland, outpointed Mog Pugh, New Castle, 12 rounds.

DEROIT: Mike Dundee, Chicago, knocked out Joe Leonard, of Brooklyn, in the third round. Bobby Green, Memphis, outpointed Ray Pryel, of Homestead, Pa.

Four St. Louis boxmen failed to turn back the Cubs, Chicago winning 11 to 4.

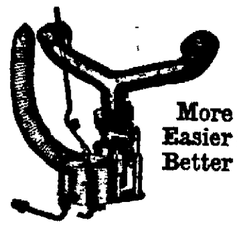

LEGION TO PLAY AT SANDUSKY SUNDAY

The American Legion ball team will go to Sandusky Sunday where they will play a return game with the Durant Stars. The Legion won the last time the two teams met, and the Durants are laying for them on their home grounds. The manager of the Legion would like to have the members of the team get in touch with him as soon as possible.

Brooklyn pummeled the Phils for 25 safeties.. Fournier led the list with six hits, including a homer. The score was 14 to 5.

The clerk and others were wearied with his procrastination, but such base feeling vanished when he confided that he was being married the next day, that this was to be the honeymoon trip. Finally he decided upon the most luxurious suite and the weighty transaction seemed to be over. But as the next buyer stepped up to the window he came dashing back.

"We'll be coming back next week," he explained, "and I might as well get the tickets now. Let's have one of the two-dollar rooms."

The Very Human Need That Drove Madge in Search of Katherine.

THE sound which came over the telephone wires when I gave Alfred Durkee Katherine Bickett's tender reassuring message to his mother was very like a hastily strangled sob, and my anger against him on account of Bess Dean rapidly departed.

That he was keenly suffering because of his idolized little mother's danger, I knew, and I was sure that until her convalescence was assured, there would be no thought of anyone else in his mind. It would be Lelia's innings distinctly did she but grasp the opportunity to devote herself wholly to her mother-in-law, putting aside her own troublesome problems until the shadow hovering over the little household should be dispelled er— I brought myself back with a shudder from that thought, as Alfred's voice again came over the wire.

"That's the message needed to make me feel all right again," he said boyishly. "Mother CAN'T go wrong if Dr. Braithwaite and Katherine have her in charge. I'm not going to try to thank you, Madge, now. I haven't words, but—"

"I'll consider all the bouquets sent," I answered lightly. "And as there will be no preparations made until we hear from Edwin, your mother will not need to see me today, will she?"

"I Need to Know."

"We all need to see you every day," he responded gallantly, "but you will have your hands full out there, won't you?"

"I shall have to stay here now, anyway, until I get word from Edwin," I returned, "but if your mother needs me, advise me directly. And—keep her busy thinking about everything else save what is before her."

"I'm going to clear up at the office now, after telephoning Lelia your news," he said decisively, "and I'm not going down again except for an hour or two when it is imperative until this thing is over. I've a lot of work I can do at home anyway, and I can keep Mother from getting morbid."

"When will you reach home?" I asked.

"I need to know so I can telephone you what I hear from Edwin."

"Just a second," he returned, and I knew that he was studying his watch, in the absurd unseeing fashion most people have in calculating time.

Madge Drafts a Telegram.

"I shall take that three-fifteen," he said. "That will bring me out to the house by four-twenty at the latest."

"Then, if I have news, I'll telephone you within half an hour after that time," I decided. "Now for Edwin's benefit, just what did Dr. Foxham tell you—in words of as nearly one syllable as you can make them."

He condensed his conversation with Dr. Foxham into brief compact sentences, upon which I concentrated my memory, and was able to write them down exactly when I had bidden Alfred good-by and left the telephone. Then, with painstaking care I drafted a telegram to my famous brother-in-law.

Feeling the need for approval which a woman almost invariably seeks upon every unusual task from the making of a new kind of cake to the refurnishing of her home, I took the paper and stole noiselessly up the stairs in search of Katherine. I knew that as soon as she could escape from my mother-in-law's demands, she would be in her own room getting her uniforms and other clothing ready for Mrs. Ticer's laundering.

With a little sigh of relief, I heard her quick, light footsteps in her room, and I pushed the door open noiselessly.

"I didn't dare knock," I explained apologetically.

"I left the door a trifle ajar purpose," she returned. "for I guessed you might come up. Alfred was on the telephone, was he not?"

"Yes, and he is so pleased."

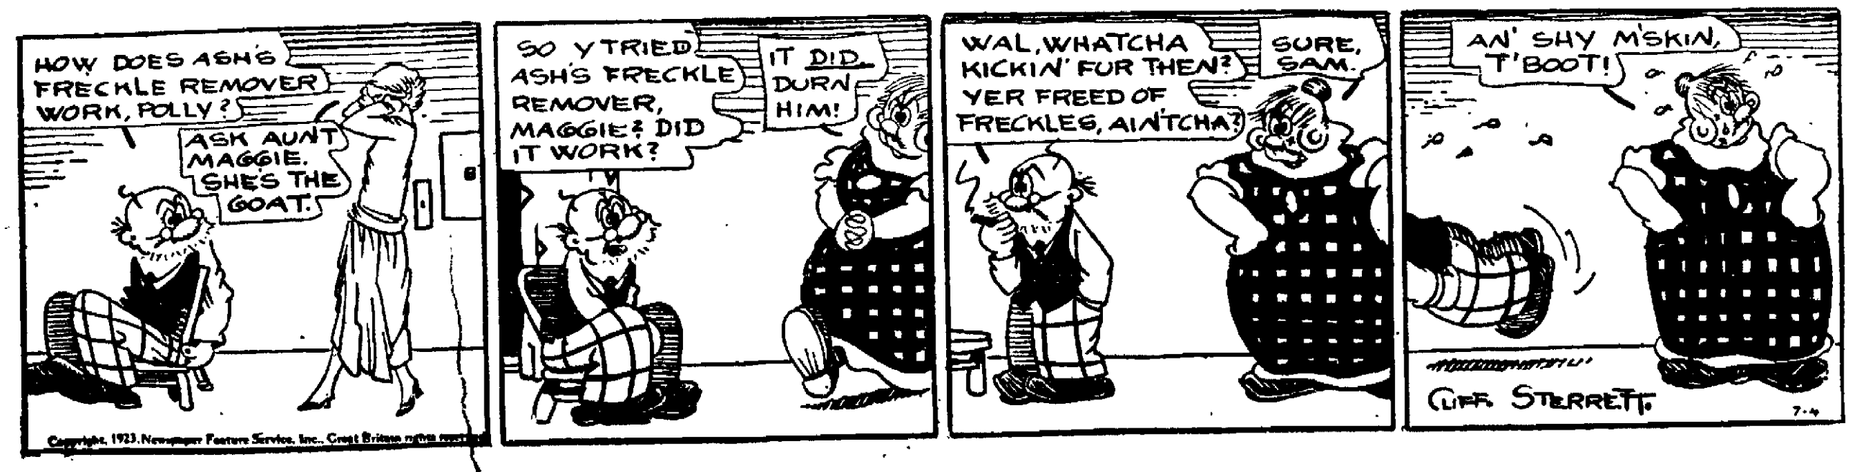

"He ought to be," she commented crispily. "It will mean his mother's life, I fancy."

"That was what he said," I answered. "Will you take a look at this thing?" I held out my draft of the telegram. "I have quoted Alfred exactly, but I want to have your trained mind pass judgment on it."

She took the paper and read it, then looked at me with approving eyes.

"I couldn't add or subtract a syllable [illegible] a comma," she said

ELYRIA'S PROGRESS—YOUR PROGRESS

In today's paper appears an advertisement from the Ohio Public Service Company that is well worth a perusal.

The Public Service Company in this advertisement is selling Elyria to the readers. It is giving reasons why manufacturers and others can find in Elyria the ideal location. There is not in the whole advertisement the squeak of the pessimist or the scund of the hammer in the hands of the knocker. If everyone of Elyria's citizens had the spirit which breathed forth in this advertisement, Elyria's progress would be swift and her prosperity sure. We agree with the spirit and with the substance of that advertisement.

Read the advertisement over. It will cheer you up if you are blue. It will challenge you if you are a pessimist. It will find a responsive chord in your soul if you are a thinking optimist. You would think to hear some knockers talk that everything is the matter with Elyria. We believe and we have reason to believe, that there is more business by at least twentyfive to thirty per cent being done in Elyria among the commercial houses than was being done one year ago. It is as difficult, certainly to find a vacant house, or a vacant flat in the city as it has ever been in its history. Prices are high. It used to be difficult, if not impossible, to find a parking place on Saturday afternoon for your car. It is becoming difficult to find it at any period.

There is nothing easier in the world than to start people believing that there is something wrong with their town. It is frequently done by those who do not find it running in a groove as it used to run and they like the old groove, and so they start the agitation that there is something wrong, everything is bad. There is something of the critic in all of us and so we take up the slogan and we get people convinced, when as a matter of fact by actual examination and fairness in the examination and comparison you will find your city ranks high. This class of people are always telling someone else that a commercial traveler came into town and said Elyria was on the bum. Maybe he did and maybe he was simply sore because he did not get an order that he expected to land and he wanted to knock the town and the unfortunate thing is that he finds ready helpers in people who ought to boost instead of knock.

Of course, everything is not ideal in our city. Outside of heaven, it would be difficult to find a place that is. And there are some unquestionably who when they reach heaven will declare it is somewhat dead and there is probably too much music. But Elyria has the character, the conscience and the energy to right any serious wrong. She has always done it and she always will do it. We believe the young people of the present will surpass the efforts of the young people of the past. Of course, things are not done in the same old way. They are not likely to be. The spirit is still there—the forms may change.

We want manufacturing interests here. We want more enterprises. We want more people, but in the large sense an influx of people and a factory that moves from another town does not increase the sum total of business done in the country nor the number of people living in the country. It changes them from one place to another and possibly instead of having the goods shipped from Shelby, they are shipped from Elyria, and what one community gains, another loses. We want to be the gainers all we can, and we want to keep a spirit in Elyria that will enable all people to profit justly when they come into Elyria. We can do it by constructive activities, helpful criticism of what we need and what we want and what we should have and then going out to work for it, rather than to find fault and knock.

We have attended meetings and listened to some of the critics of Elyria and we are sure if a stranger had been there contemplating a home for a manufacturing plant or a home for his family, he would have become depressed and declared he would not settle in that community on a bet. These men misrepresent the spirit of Elyria, the wholesomeness of a citizen, their determination and forward looking vision.

We would recommend for them to read this advertisement that has called forth these suggestions. It is possible that some of them need a self-examination and individually they are out of tune and out [illegible] have visited many towns and cities about [illegible] and we come back to our own with [illegible] satisfaction and gratitude. It has not reached [illegible] better will. But we are going to help [illegible] get goal and not be a drag.

KOMICAL TELEGRAMS

By JIM ARMITAGE, Himself

Well, school's out and the family man is getting more time to spend with the kids.

They're a wonderful institution, especially when you come home from work all tired out—and they start climbing on your lap—all smeared up with candy

The fellow who works nights has a wonderful time these days—but he don't get much sleep.

The expense of bringing up a family don't blame the father of today He's got a half dozen kids—he's used to being broke.

To get the most out of children—live in a neighborhood full of them. Course it's bad for the kids eyes—it don't help their nose any either.

Course it don't take long for them to grow, then they don't bother you much—they can't spare the time from the movies

Boys are not so much trouble and they help business for the "glass pu in' man And in greet apple season—they pay for most o the up-keep of the doctor's automobile

Next time a boy annoys you remember that President Harding was a boy once—so was Jesse James.

Just when you've rescued the cat one of the others has his hand in the electric ironer—they make life interesting

Still if it wasn't for the newsboy—you'd be away back on a lot of reading.

The old-fashioned kid "Was going to be President of the United States" but he usually turned out to be a street car conductor—same as kids do today.

The reformer who tells you that 'Boys are going to the dogs nowadays" has a very short memory—or he didn't have much fun when he was a kid.

When you come home mother tells you 'Billie was a bad boy." Then if you don't punish him you hurt her feelings, and if you do you not only hurt Billie's—you simply ruin the seat of his pants

But if it wasn't for kids—where would the Elks get their new members' and what would become of "The league of women voters a few years from now?"

I'll never forget when I was a kid—and I don't think anyone who lived in the same neighborhood will either

Of course I don't favor their breaking windows with baseballs, but if they don't happen to be my windows I say, "Boys will be boys," so what's the use"

"Backward turn backward, oh time in thy flight make me a boy again just to tonight" That brother knew his stuff.

TIMELY VIEWS ON WORLD TOPICS

"EDUCATION TOO SOFT; PUBLIC'S MONEY WASTED," SAYS O. S. U. HEAD

Education is becoming too "soft" Too much time is spent teaching children things they can learn better outside of the class room, with a resultant waste of public money.

Dr W O Thompson

These were two of the principal criticisms aimed recently against modern education by Dr. W. O. Thompson, president of Ohio State university, in a recent address before teachers.

At the same time Dr. Thompson warned the teachers that the public is beginning to question some of their motives.

"The great amount of interest you are taking in taxation, bond issues and things of that sort, is giving rise to the suspicion that you are primarily thinking about your own interests, especially your own salaries, instead of the interests of the children," he said. "I don't say that is true, but you must put yourselves right before the public

"Your school people, too have got to recognize your responsibilities to the taxpayers in money matters You ought to be thinking about that every time you make a budget.

Overspecialization is Charge

"A great deal of money is being wasted now by overspecialization of the curriculum. You too often assume that the boy and girl doesn't learn anything except under your direction The fact is that they are learning all the time, every time they walk home from school they are learning new things about life.

The modern boy of 10 or 11 is reading books his grandfather never read. Good books, too. You must recognize that fact and quit trying to teach facts he can learn better in some other way."

Dr. Thompson said he believed there was too much manual training in the schools. Teaching of handcraft should aim at the fundamentals and eliminate a great deal of the teaching of specialized operations in carpentry.

"People aren't sending their children to you that they may learn how to make money," he said, "but so that they can become better rounded men and women.

Common Labor Hit

"The dearth of common labor today is due in a measure to education. People see that common labor is getting the hot end of the poker—that the laborer isn't getting out of life what everybody wants."

Fail To Test

Intelligence tests, which since the war have enjoyed a vogue among educators, failed to test moral purpose, personality, social adaptibility and motives, he asserted

"In short," he said, "they fail to tell you the most important things you need to know about children. Giving some educators intelligence tests to play with is a good deal like giving a small boy a sharp knife Maybe he will whittle something useful with it, but he needs watching, or he may make a miscue and cut his throat

"We need more sportsmanship in education. We need more of the moral courage that buckles up against life determined to fight one's way through. We have been looking too much for the soft way, to relieve children of the necessity of doing any fighting or any thinking

"We need a change in attitude and the teacher must change her attitude first"

POEMS THAT LIVE

REQUIESCAT

Strew on her roses roses
And never a spray of yew
In quite she reposes:
Ah, would that I did too

Her wish the world required,
She bathed it in smiles of glee.
But her heart was tired, tired,
And now they let her be

Her life was turning, turning,
In mazes of heart and sound
But for peace her soul was yearning
And now peace laps her round.

Her cabin'd, ample spirit,
It flutter'd and fail'd for breath,
Tonight it doth inherit
The vastly hall of death

Back to work again after attending the National Winchester convention in Chicago, George M. and H. K. Day report an enthusiastic crowd. Over 5400 dealers located in every state in the union have Winchester stores and 2000 went to Chicago.

A year ago the Winchester and Simmons Hardware Companies were united and now the name Winchester appears on the largest line of merchandise under one brand. All tools, guns, sporting goods and ammunition is fully warranted and worthy of your confidence.

The convention was held in the immense Coliseum, two hundred booths being filled with displays while business sessions were held in the balcony. On Wednesday special trains took the visitors to Great Lakes Naval Station for a field day and barbecue.

On this occasion Johnny Weissmuller broke his own world record by swimming 500 yards in 5:50 2-5 while three lady world champions gave exhibitions. Joie Ray ran a mile in 4:18 2-5. Mark Arie won the trapshooting event.

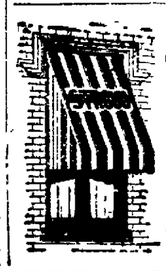

H. K. Day shooting with other dealers from all parts of the country tied for first in his class.

WHERE INTEREST INTERESTS

By Frank H. Boylan

To the man who hoards his savings in an old shoe, disreputable bank, a broken pitcher in the pantry or in a tin can in the cellar (such procedure a standing invitation to midnight callers of burglarious intent)—to this man safety or his conception of safety is the only element to be considered in the accumulation of money. What cares he for annual dividends resulting from investment one hundred percent safer really than his own crude system?

After safety, however, the well advised business man considers another factor—a very essential element. "Where," he asks himself, "Where can I put my money where it is surely protected and at the same time it will be earning for me the maximum in interest?"

Savings and Loan Companies are not only the acme of safety, but they pay a higher rate of interest than other unquestionable safe plans of saving. They can do this because their expenses are remarkably small. Not being a closed stock organization conducted for the benefit of a few select owners the depositing members reap the earnings as well as the benefits.

It may seem a small item in print but a Savings & Loan Company perfectly compounded as it is looks much more attractive at the end of a few years than the results of three or four percent.

Safe and Growing—what more positive adjectives could be applied to a savings account?

Think the "If" from "Thrift."

MEET HORRIBLE DEATHS AT SEA

LONDON, June 30.—Eight of the crew of the lost British steam ship Trevessa, which foundered in the Indian Ocean on May 27, died in terrible agony while the second life boat with 16 men was making its way to land, said a despatch from Mauritius today.

There were originally 24 men in the life boat when it put off from the sinking ship in the middle of the Indian ocean. Intense heat alternated with severe storms. Both food and water gave out during the weeks the boat was drifting.

Nearly all of the Trevessa's crew of 44 are now accounted for, having landed on Indian Ocean Islands.

SAYS ADULTERY IS MORE DIVORCE CAUSE

Two divorces were granted by Judge A. R. Webber this morning. The first was given to Frank Horvath from Helen Horvath, of Lorain, on the ground of gross neglect of duty. There was some testimony along other lines.

On passing comment on this divorce Judge Webber made the statement that nine out of ten cases of divorce, the real cause was adultery. It might not always be in the petition, but developments at the trials had convinced him that adultery was the real cause. For the sake of the children other causes were alleged.

The second divorce was given to Ray Doane, living on a farm near Wellington, from Frances Doane He alleged that he was deceived by herself and father when the statement was made that she was 16 when he married her. As a matter of fact she was but 14 years old. She neglected her home and ran around visiting and staying away from home days at a time. He was given the custody of their minor child, and a divorce on the ground of gross neglect of duty.

TODAY'S RECIPES

Swedish Potato Cakes — Two cups cold boiled potatoes mashed, one egg, one teaspoon baking powder, one-half cup milk, one cup flour, salt and pepper. Beat well and drop from spoon on well greased griddle Cook slowly, browning on both sides.

Rice—Indian Style — One cup rice, uncooked, one cup soup stock, one cup stewed tomatoes, a little grated onion, salt and pepper, butter. Boil together the tomatoes and soup stock. When at boiling point add the rice and cook until rice is done. Remove from the fire and add a good sized lump of butter and let steam for twenty minutes. Don't stir very much after the rice is put in.

Meat Loaf—One and one-half pounds of beef ground with one-quarter pound of salt pork, one-half cup bread crumbs, one-quarter cup milk or stock, one egg, a small onion or onion juice if liked, salt and pepper to taste. Mix all together thoroughly, form into loaf and bake one hour.

Chocolate Pie—One square bitter chocolate melted, one-half cup sugar, one heaping tablespoon cornstarch, yolks two eggs, one cup milk, pinch salt. Cook and put in baked pie shell. Whip egg whites, sweeten and spread on for meringue and brown Whipped cream may also be used to top this pie.

SUGGESTIONS

When Baking Fish—When baking fish just slip two strips of clean, washed muslin under the fish when you lay it in the pan. In this way, by taking hold of each end of the two strips, you can remove the fish after cooking without its breaking.

When Washing Black Stockings—Wash in cool water and add a teaspoonful of vinegar to the last rinsing water. This will help keep them a good black.

Greasy Pans and Kettles—Pour a few drops of ammonia into every greasy roasting pan or cooking dish after half filling with warm water. A bottle of ammonia should always be kept near the sink for such uses. Never allow the pans to stand dry, for it doubles the labor of washing.

To Clean Bread Boards—Wooden bread boards should be scrubbed with salt or sand rather than soap, in order to be kept in good condition. Sun, or set them before the fire until they are entirely dry. A musty kneading board will impart a taste to the dough that is not agreeable.

Care of Cut Glass—Cut glass is sensitive to sudden changes of temperature. Do not hold the cut glass bowl that has had ice cream in it under the hot water faucet, or do not take a piece of cut glass from a hot room into a cold one suddenly. Pieces of ice touching the sides of a punch bowl will sometimes cause it to crack.

G. M. C. TRUCK BUILT TO MEET REQUIREMENT

G. M. C. trucks are built to meet the requirements of any business, said Mr. Winckler of the Farm Implement Co., local dealers. The one-ton chassis has the speed, quick getaway, low up-keep and low fuel consumption of a light automobile; also the power and sturdy qualities necessary for heavy work on bad roads and hills.

The 2, 3 1-2 and 5-ton chasis have the two-range transmission which enables the operator to shift gears to meet any requirements, such as plenty of speed for light work and good road conditions, with low speed and excessive power for extreme conditions, and are built especially heavy to wear well with the 50 per cent overload.

COULD HARDLY DO HER WORK

Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound Made Her Eat, Sleep and Feel Better Every Way

Chicago, Ill.—"I was weak and rundown and in such a nervous condition that I could hardly do my work. I was tired all the time, and dizzy, and could not sleep and had no appetite. I tried different medicines for years, but they did not help me. Then I read in the papers about Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound and what it had done for other women and gave it a trial. I began to eat better and could sleep, and consider it a wonderful medicine. I recommend it to my friends and will never be without it."—Mrs M. OHLEN, 3640 S. Marshfield Ave., Chicago, Ill.

It is such letters as these that testify to the value of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound. This woman speaks from the fullness of her heart. She describes as correctly as she can her condition, first the symptoms that bothered her the most, and later the disappearance of those symptoms. It is a sincere expression of gratitude.

For nearly fifty years Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound has been so praised by women.

ON THE SPUR OF THE MOMENT

By ROY K. MOULTON

THE REASON

Americans are living longer.
Experts have been at work
And have found that the Average of life is fifty years.
Back in the nineties
The average was but thirty-nine years.
New York State health officer
Says average city man can
Expect to reach half-century
Many causes are assigned
For this longer span,
But we have an idea that
The real reason of it is
That more people everywhere
Are riding in automobiles
And, therefore, fewer people
Are trying to dodge them.

New Jersey doctors are now prescribing radio receiving sets in case of illness. Their idea is to inoculate patients with radio programmes and make them forget as far as possible their troubles.

Followed out to the ultimate this plan offers some surprising possibilities which may be enumerated briefly.

For a nervous patient, for instance, one suffering a nervous breakdown, how soothing would be two or three hours of jazz played by some Broadway cafe orchestra, including washboilers, skillets, locomotive whistles and cowbells. Can't you see that patient getting out of his hospital cot and walking home a well man?

A patient laid up at home with gout, one foot bandaged and resting on a pillow, would appreciate that celebrated radio lecture: "How I Climbed to the Top of Mount McKinley," by Professor Philander Butts, of Snookum College.

A man suffering from dyspepsia would be made immediately well by the well-known programme lecture on "Hog Culture in Kansas and Glimpses Into the Chicago Stockyards."

An insomnia patient listening-in would immediately call for his clothes, go home in a taxicab and go to bed and sleep if he heard the waltz "Three o'Clock in the Morning."

A speech by Senator Borah during the evening would half empty any hospital, all the men jumping out of bed and saluting the nurses and looking for a gun and a khaki suit to go forth to battle.

People suffering from mild forms of insanity would listen to two or three bedtime stories, and being able to understand them, would declare their complete return to sanity and demand their release.

There is probably a good deal to the new theory, and if the patients stand the first two or three tests nothing can kill them.

News Notes From Movieland

This is a different story from the one we usually write about a new movie star. Instead of being about a young and beautiful youth who after years of struggle has arrived at stardom or one who has taken the screen world by storm over night, we are to tell about a man, ninety-three years old, who is about to make his debut in pictures.

Ezra Meeker is, so far as known, the only living man who, as an adult participated in founding the commonwealth known as the state of Washington He is now bending his energies to the making of a picture of the Oregon Trail, "The Pioneers of America." He desires the picture to be accurate in every detail and will, therefore, go to the plains and the trail himself, for this picture is to be "shot" on the sites where the scenes actually happened

"The first time I crossed the Oregon trail was seventy-one years ago," said Mr. Meeker, recently "I crossed as an emigrant to the Oregon country. I am conversant with the trail and the details of the happenings. We crossed the Platte river on a bull-boat. The bull-boat was made out of twigs, of willows and buffalo hides, and we made it for the crossing and afterward took off the hide and went on We crossed rivers in a wagon box and rafts."

Arthur Krowse, a scenario writer, is to work up the continuity from data which Mr. Meeker will furnish him, and in some of the scenes there will be employed as many as 100 people

Mr Meeker is undoubtedly the oldest star, and all of us will be anxious to see this nonogenarian make his debut in his ninety-fourth year.

Ezra Meeker.

VIRGINIA PEARSON RETURNS.

Virginia Pearson, former Fox player, is returning to the screen after a long absence She will do "Dust in the Doorway" for an Associated First National release. The story is an original by Mary O'Hara.

In her days with Fox she made such pictures as "When False Tongues Speak" "The Firebrand," "Her Price," "The Liar," "Queen of Hearts" and "Buchannon's Wife." After she left Fox she made two productions under the Pearson Productions' banner. They were "The Bishop's Emeralds" and "Impossible Kathleen."

EVELYN BRENT LEAVES FAIRBANKS

It seems that Evelyn Brent had an optional contract with Douglas Fairbanks who engaged her to play opposite him in "The Black Pirate" But when he deferred production for six months she decided the delay was keeping her off the screen too long and she refused to renew the option recently. So she will not play opposite him in "The Thief of Bagdad," which he has substituted for "The Black Pirate." She hasn't announced her plans at present "

JULANNE JOHNSTON SIGNED

Speaking of Douglas Fairbanks reminds us that he has signed Julanne Johnston for a prominent role in "The Thief of Bagdad." Julanne is one of the most popular girls in Hollywood, a dancer and actress, and ecerybody is congratulating her on this best opportunity of her career.

THEATRES

COLONIAL: "The Hero," featuring Barbara LaMarr, is the dark eyed "Hester" in this production. She was born in Richmond, Va., of an old American family. She refused to ornament the family circle, and made her first appearance as an amateur in a classical barefoot dance. She accepted a position in a featured role in a Broadway musical revue. She was grabbed off by a vaudeville organization and started across the continent. Douglas Fairbanks saw her and decided he wanted her in his production of "The Three Musketeers." Then came the engagement for "The Hero," because of her appealing screen personality and her ability to lend sympathy to a role that would present difficulties to a player of less ability.

GRAND: Agnes Ayers, picture, "The Heart Raider." This is a story of absorbing interest and there is much relishable comedy. At Palm Beach the story goes she tries to impress a bachelor, but he looks on her as frivolous. She is determined to win him, and finally succeeds. There is an excellent supporting cast, and the story is interspersed with a good deal of the comedy that helps to make a picture of interest to an audience.

DREAMLAND: Herbert Rawlinson, in "The Prisoner." This picture is one that if full of intrigue, and is laid in Europe, centering around an old castle. The love story that develops tells of the rescue of the girl the her is in love with from a marriage with a man posing as a Count, but who is in reality a murderer. In addition there is a Larry Semon comedy.

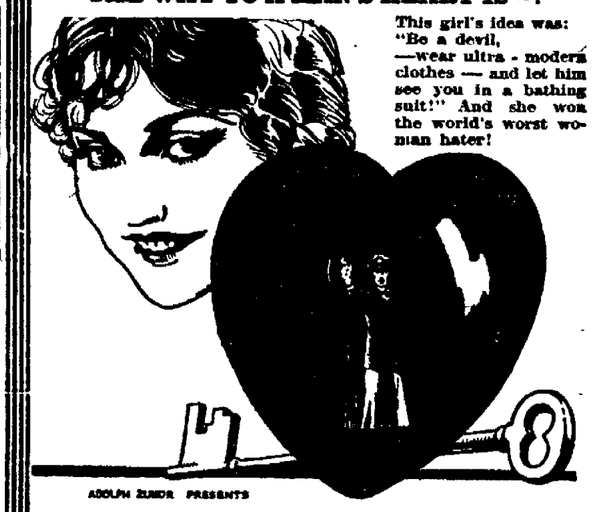

It is estimated that the 1922 consumption of meat in the United States slightly exceeded 150 pounds a person.

OLDSMOBILE
Wins by Comparison

Do you know what the king bolts are? They are really the connection between the front axle and the front wheels of your automobile. Your driving ease and safety depend on the size and strength of these two important pieces of steel. If you drive an Oldsmobile you will have the benefit of king bolts that are 1 inch in diameter—instead of ¾ inch, which is the usual size.

This is just one more feature of Oldsmobile oversize construction which assures you extra years of satisfying, trouble-free service.

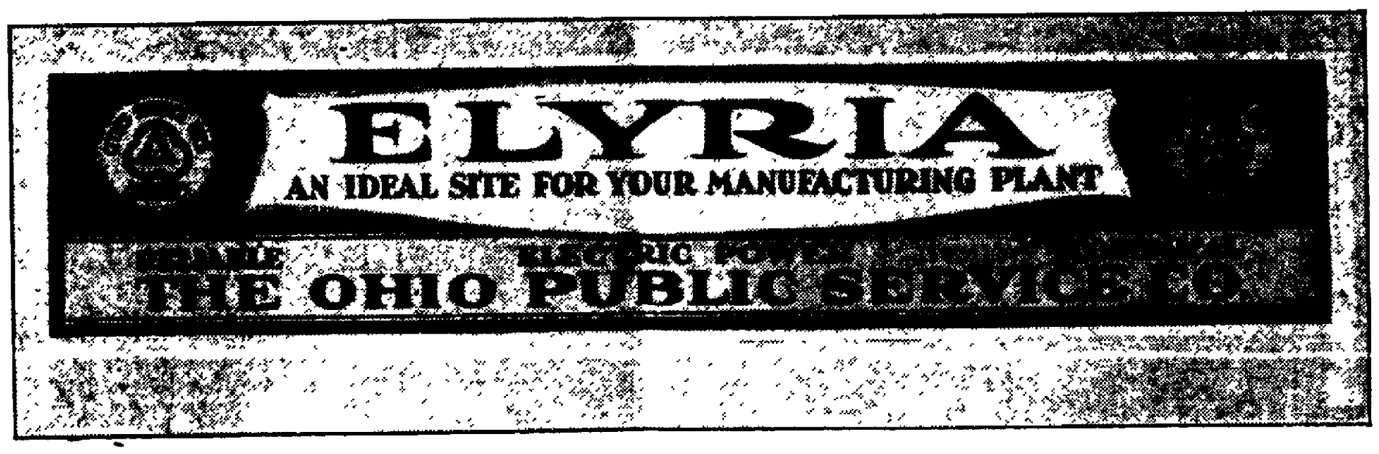

And remember, that the Four's oversize, wear-resisting construction means high re-sale value.

ELYRIA

COUNTY OF LORAIN, STATE OF OHIO

ESTIMATED POPULATION 23,500

1920 CENSUS 20,470

ELYRIA is situated within nine miles of Lake Erie shore, connected with the harbor city by two electric lines, a steam road and a fine improved, paved road. The trunk line of the New York Central enters Elyria from the east and then forms into the two branches on its way west. The Baltimore and Ohio passes through the city and affords an outlet to Elyria's freight and passenger service to the south, where it connects with the Big Four at Grafton, within easy trucking distance of Elyria, only seven miles away.

Electric lines enter the city from five directions and suburban busses connect up with all outlying villages not otherwise connected. Elyria is on the main trucking route between Chicago and Cleveland, Detroit and Buffalo.' Elyria is twenty-five mlies west of Cleveland, and presents to the prospective manufacturer, the business man or of residence, one of the most attractive locations in the central west.

ELYRIA IS KNOWN AS THE 100% CITY

The foundation of growth is industry, widely diversified. There are only two plants in the entire city manufacturing an identical commodity. There is an opportunity at Elyria for any legitimate industry, the products of which find a market in the middle west. Elyria does not want industries that will not stand a careful business investigation, but Elyria business men and Elyria citizens will see to it that industry of the right calibre are provided with the necessary facilities for location and expansion. Elyria's manufacturing advantages have never been exploited. There are ideal sites for manufacturing plants, attractive home city to labor and free from extreme disturbances.

Elyria is more active industrially today than most communities of its size in the state. Those who know the situation in Elyria and who are keeping track of it elsewhere, are proud of Elyria's record during the past.

POWER AND LABOR

98 per cent of the total industries of Elyria is operated on Electric power, generated at the Edgewater Station of the Ohio Public Service Company, only nine miles distance from Elyria. The Ohio Public Service Company is one of the units of the Doherty interest of New York City, a system with more than $550,000,000, invested in public utility enterprises throughout the United States.

The manufacturing firms in Elyria enjoy one of the lowest power rates in Ohio. A great material benefit in meeting price competition is enjoyed by the men who manufacture in Elyria.

One of the greatest factors that the Elyria manufacturer obtains in locating his plant here is cheapness of electrical power. Production costs, principally power costs, enter in the meeting of competition, especially so when Elyria is paying within a few cents per hour for labor as every other city.

Elyria manufacturers find a ready market for their products because the power rate is not exorbitant.

Power furnished by the Ohio Public Service Company is constant, uninterrupted and power n abundance can be had. The power transportation of the Ohio Public Serice to its customers is as modern and up-to-date as electrical engineering can devise.

Additions are being made at the Edgewater Station of the Ohio Public Service Company to the extent of $1,500,000 that unites the complete Ohio Public Service power producing stations in Ohio, thus removing beyond all doubt but that the power load will be even, nonfluctuating, for if one station is damaged, other stations take up the burden. So there cannot be a power failure in Elyria for any great length of time. Manufacturers who have studied costs, know that plants operating by electric power are plants operated profitably. Comparison with other power rates in cities of a like size, will prove to the prospective manufacturer that Elyria offers opportunities untold.

FINANCIAL ABILITY AND HEALTHFUL

The capital invested in manufacturing is over $30,000,,000 the value of the manufactured products, approximately $50,000,000 annually, and factory pay-rolls almost $10,,000,000.

Last bank deposits at the last call period in June were $14,000,000, and bank resources at the same time were $17,000,000.

Elyria is quoted as having the highest bank deposit per capita in the United States.

In Elyria fuel is reasonable in price and easily obtained. Elyria labor supply compares favorably with other Ohio cities in intelligence and industry. One of the largest home-financing businesses in this city stated that fully 75% own their homes.

We believe anyone can find Elyria has as good water facilities as anyone can find elsewhere. Elyria owns its own water plant and obtains its water supply from Lake Erie. We have one entire pipe line to the lake and another almost the entire way, and we will have a double main system to the greatest source of water supply that there is in North America, with an adequate pumping plant equipped with the finest filtering system that engineers were able to obtain.

SOCIAL LIVING CONDITIONS

No city can boast of greater co-operation amongst organizations, commercial, civic and social. The Kiwanis Club, the Rotary Club, the Young Men's Business Club, the Exchange Club, the Manufacturers' Association; the schools, churches, etc., all work together for the common good.

Elyria supplies to its citizens one of the finest hospitals in the state of Ohio, a beautiful country club, also excellent Y. M. C. A. and Y. W. C. A. headquarters, and social conditions are ideal.

The religious and philanthropic interests of Elyria are not overlooked. Her churches are numerous and well supported. All of the agencies for social welfare such as the Y. M. C. A. and the Y. W. C. A, Salvation Army, Americanization, and Community Settlement work, receive generous and systematic aid through a well-organized community council. In fact no phase of Elyria's life is forgotten in the varied activities of her citizens, of her business men, and of her manufacturers.

Elyria is an ideal city for industry and for home life.

THREE UP-TO-DATE HINTS FOR MILADY'S WARDROBE

WHETHER milady vacations at home or abroad she needs some new things and would prefer those things to be just a little different from the usual and very much up-to-date.

The three ideas embodied here are all of those things. The silk slipover sweater on the left is a particularly clever one. It has a square neck and is finished at the bottom and cuffs with an unusually attractive design. Picoted ribbon encircles the waist twice and ends in heavy silk tassels.

On the right is a dainty boudoir cap which is guaranteed to effectually hide unsightly curlers and enhance the natural loveliness of the face under it. It is made of soft val lace and is stiffened with broad blue ribbon and trimmed with rosebuds. For the woman who likes to insinuate a little coquetry into her morning greeting of her spouse nothing is so intriguing as a becoming cap.

A very practical and at the same time unusual bathing suit is shown in the center. Knitted black worsted is the material used with a black and white checked design applied as trimming. An unusual opening at the side of both skirt and knickers is also trimmed with the checked material. A narrow tie of the plain black encircles the waist.

The boys go out to camp and assist in cleaning up the grounds, putting in new equipment and at the same time get a splendid outing and enjoy the open woods and the hikes and swims.

The boys going out today were Francis Brubaker Orlando Jones, Eugene Conway, William Theobold Edward McAllister, Jack Dickison, Myron Lertzman, Lewrence Hales, Bill Day, Lawrence Crowell, Dave Horan, Wayne Liggett, Charles Sherrard, John Whitney, Henry Miller, Charles Jerrett, Fred Smith, Harry Fowkes, Joe Smith The group was in charge of Hugh Gray, Roy Hudson and W. TOLEDO, June 30.—A presidential election has been the feature of the League of Women Voters' activities during the past week. A mock convention with three candidates—Miss Mathilda Campbell, president of the Toledo League; Miss Amy G. Maher, of the Consumers' League, and Miss Mary Fair, head of the policewomen's department—was held. Such activities are part of the non-partisan political education being conducted by the League of Women Voters.

COLUMBUS, June 30.—Women over Ohio will know the exact proceedings of primary and election activities, with the working out of plans of the Ohio League of Women Voters, according to announcement made this week. A "Political Calendar" has been compiled in the state headquarters office, and through the columns of the League's monthly publication will reach every League member in the state before the Primary.

The Political Calendar is a brief compilation of the various dates and necessary steps to be taken by candidates and by voters before elections. Not a candidate will be officially endorsed by the Leagues which hold entirely to the non-partisan and whose purpose it is to gather and disseminate facts and to get out the vote.

Activities of the Leagues of Women Voters over the state, will be devoted to having representative women from practically every section of the state, attend hearings of the Standard trial at the Girls' Industrial School, Delaware. The Ohio League and the Ohio Federation of Women's Clubs are co-operating and have jointly secured the services of two attorneys to investigate the charges and the evidence on both sides. The attorneys announced are Mr. Alfred Bettman, Cincinnati, and Mr. Stewart A. Hoover, Columbus.

Miles, chairman of the efficiency in government committee; Miss Maude G. Smalley, chairman of the membership committee; and Mrs. William P. Halenkamp, chairman of the committee on local affairs.

TOLEDO PAYS HOMAGE TO 1 MILLIONTH CAR

Willys-Overland Celebrates the Birthday of Overland Car Bearing Serial Number 1,000,000—Huge Crowds Present

Tuesday afternoon, June 12, was a gala day in Toledo On that date the big plant of the Willys-Overland Company produced its one millionth car, an Overland bearing serial number 1,000,000, and it was apparent that Toledo appreciated the importance of the event by the manner in which the citizens turned out to participate in the celebration. Official recognition was evidenced by Mayor Brough and his cabinet and many prominent business men of Toledo who were on hand to personally congratulate President John N Willys as the one millionth car was driven off the factory runway by Chief Engineer Baker and presented to Mr. Willys in front of the Willys-Overland administration buildings.

After the car was inspected by Mr Willys, it was handed over to C. J S Phillips, salesman with the Toledo Branch, who in turn relinquished it to a Toledo man who was anxious to have the honor of being the proud possessor of the car that marks such an important forward step in the history of the Willys-Overland organization.

The final touch on the one millionth car was signalled by the blasts of factory whistles, exploding of aerial bombs and enthusiastic cheers of thousands of invited citizens and plant employees.

GREAT DEMAND FOR FORDSON TRACTORS IN TWO BIG FIELDS

Both agriculture and industry are making increasing demands for the Fordson tractor.

While the use of the Fordson as a farm implement is extending in every agricultural section of the country as farmers come to realize the advantage and economy of power farming, a most noticeable feature of the sale is the growing use of this sturdy and dependable power plant in industrial and commercial activities

Contractors and builders are everywhere adapting the Fordson to meet their needs for power, either moveable or stationary, and road engineers throughout the country are specifying its use with highway construction machinery.

To meet this growing demand for Fordson Tractors production is now at capacity and for the first three months of the year reached a total of 27,087 as compared with 8,340 for the same period a years ago

Production of Ford cars and trucks for domestic use during the week ending Tuesday, April 24, totaled 38,543 The highest day's production was 6,558.

Fordson Tractor production for the same period was 2,795.

JORDAN FAVORS THE TOP DOWN AUTOING

One year ago the automobile manufacturers decided that because nearly everybody was driving with the top up that everybody wanted an enclosed car, so a tremendous increase in the production of enclosed cars was planned and all of the advertising and salesmanship of the industry was concentrated upon the promotion of this particular type

Now a new and very interesting angle has developed.

Thousands of people throughout the country are riding this spring with the tops down

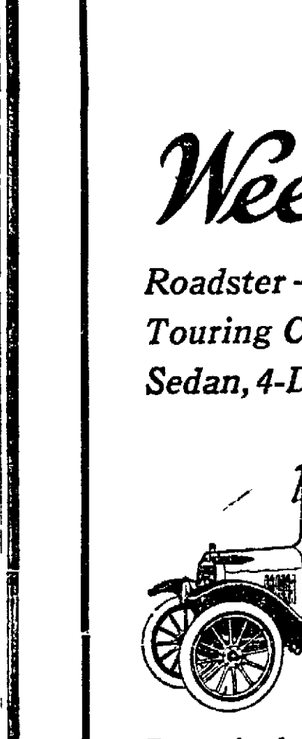

This is in keeping with the idea which has always been prevalent in England where automobile tops are always made so that they may be put down readily.

Sunshine is such an important element in the retention of good health that many people who were thought to be prospective buyers of enclosed cars are changing their minds on account of the fact that they would prefer to be in the free, open air rather than have the feeling of being within four walls and a ceiling.

CHANDLER
Leads Traffic!

Genuine pleasure driving through traffic! That's what the Chandler owner enjoys—thanks to the phenomenal high gear capacity of the

Pikes Peak Motor

He can roll along so slowly in high that pedestrians pass him. Yet the pull of his motor is flawlessly smooth.

The instant the road clears he can "give her the gas." And his car leaps ahead in a swift, unlabored, silent rush.

He can drive for blocks without touching the gear lever—without slipping the clutch—without riding the brake—without nursing his motor in any way.

That's unadulterated driving delight! And it is possible only because the performance capacity of the new Chandler power plant was developed on the highest automobile climb in the world. No other motor quite equals it. Drive it yourself—and see!

MACHINE ADDS ELEVEN YEARS TO HUMAN LIFE

Eleven years have been added to the average life of the American citizen by the general adoption of the automobile as a means of individual transportation.

In 1903, when only 10,850 cars were produced, an American might hope to live an average of 37.64 years.

In 1913, or ten years later when 461,500 automobiles were built, his life expectancy was 41.01 years.

In 1922, when 2,287,000 automobiles were built, his life expectancy had increased to 48.66 years.

Sunshine, freedom from worry, the open air and the exhilaration of the open road has accomplished this in twenty years' time.

These figures were revealed after an investigation by three prominent physicians in Louisville in an exhibit at the National Health Exposition held during this month.

That is why Edward S. Jordan, president of the Jordan Motor Car Company, says that the greatest contribution made to good health and future happiness of the American people is the reduction of price on certain automobiles.

It will take one million people away from the congested areas of the city out into the country, not only for fresh air but to establish homes where the owner may have a garden and an open space for the development of his children.

WYOMING COWGIRLS GREET MRS. HARDING

President Harding wasn't the only one to receive attention during his jaunt through the west. Cowboys called on him, but the cowgirls, not to be outdone, called on Mrs. Harding and presented her with a huge bouquet. They invited her for a ride, but the train schedule and other things prevented acceptance, to Mrs. Harding's great regret.

Mrs. Harding poses with western cowgirls.

PAIGE-JEWETT SALES FOR MAY TAKE JUMP

DETROIT, Mich., June 30—The swing of the pendulum from farmer buying to automobile purchases by manufacturers and executives is shown in the May summary of sales by the distribution department of the Paige-Detroit Motor Car Company.

In February the distribution summary of Paige and Jewett motor cars showed that 8 per cent of the automobiles sold by the Paige company went to farmers but in May this has dropped off to 5.7 per cent and the manufacturers and executives have taken the lead with a total purchase of 11.3 per cent of the Paige and Jewett output.

Another large purchaser of automobiles, as reflected by the Paige summary developed in the month of May also laborers. This class bought 10.3 per cent of the Paige and Jewett production. The labor classification included also skilled mechanics and foremen.

Closely following the farmers in purchases were merchants. This class bought 5.6 per cent. The building trades proved a large buyer of cars in May as 4.7 per cent of the Paige and Jewett production went to this class.

Women, who purchased cars in their own names bought a slightly larger percentage of the output in May than February, according to the summary. The May figure was 4.2 per cent, against 4 per cent earlier in the year.

Only one-tenth of one per cent below the women classification is found salesmen. This is a decided increase over the previous summary.

Diagnosing Auto Trouble Is Help

The automobile owner who is mechanically inclined has one distinct advantage over his fellow-motorist who prides himself upon the fact that he "doesn't care a hang about mechanics;" namely, the ability to suspect and investigate signs of trouble before it becomes serious. This kind of car owner, if he is fairly able to diagnose trouble, is in a position to save much money on his repair costs.

In this respect, a new instrument, known as the Vacuumeter, is rendering invaluable service. Mounted on the instrument board of the car, it records entire gasoline performance. By warning the motorist of any trouble and by signaling the cause, the Vacuumeter saves both the car owner and the mechanic the necessity of hunting for trouble.

It is common knowledge that it requires even a skilled automobile mechanic many times as long to find the cause of the trouble as to correct the trouble after the cause of it is found. The usual practice among mechanics is to locate trouble by a process of elimination, which at best is very costly to the car owner. By accurately diagnosing trouble, the Vacuumeter, therefore, saves the motor car owner money and greatly reduces operating cost.

Favors Chandler For Cool Engine

Every evening, nowadays, Mrs. Average Motorist calls on the so-called head of the family for relief from the heat.

It's a fact that but little attention has been paid to the comfort of the driver in hot weather. Hot driving compartments, super-heated floor boards that burn his feet, and the exertion of steering and gear shifting, are just a few of the things that make it anything but pleasant for the driver.

The designers of the new Chandler, with its Pikes Peak Motor, gave unusual attention to driving comfort with the hot weather in mind.

In the first place, they planned the Pikes Peak motor itself so that it cannot be made to boil under the stiffest climbs or hardest going. It makes the entire ascent of Pikes Peak, for instance, without boiling.

One of the greatest sources of warm weather discomfort, a furnace-like engine, thus is eliminated.

Next, the Chandler engineers relieved the driver of that painful discomfort, hot floor boards and pedals. The exhaust of most engines is discharged at the rear of the motor block, and the exhaust pipe must be carried close to the floors, which soon becomes unbearably hot. The Chandler overcomes this by leading the exhaust from all six cylinders forward, close to the radiator, then down and to the rear far below the floor boards.

The average wage for male farm labor for all of the United States is $28.97 a month, with board and lodging.

STUTZ 6 SPORT-ABOUT IS BRILLIANT AUTO

INDIANAPOLIS, June 30.—Gay sport models continue to predominate among the late offerings of automobile manufacturers, as the summer season advances.

Most recent contribution to smart motoring fashion is the new Stutz Six Sportabout, announced by the Stutz Motor Car Company of America, Inc.

In vivid yet refined contrast and coloring, in brilliance of nickeled ornamentation, and in completeness and luxury of equipment and appointment, the Stutz Six Sportabout leaves no wish unrequited.

Colors are a rich Fleetwood blue, ideal maroon and yellow, with genuine, full-fashioned brown Spanish leather upholstery. The top is of sand-tinted weatherproof material of finest quality, extremely serviceable and attractive.

Nickel work emphasizes the smartness of the car and its sport character, the radiator, headlamps, bumper, step and scuff plates and baggage rails being finished in this manner, as are the fittings of the windshield wings and spotlight.

A commodious trunk, covered with material to match the color scheme of the car, is mounted on a securely anchored trunk rack at the rear. Two suitcases are snugly nested in the interior.

Other items of the equipment include an automatic windshield wiper and a rear vision mirror. Two spare tires, fitted with tire covers, are mounted on carriers alongside the hood.

OLDS SALES MANAGER SEES BOOM IN SOUTH

Thousands of dollars are being spent by automobile dealers throughout the South in new buildings, and motor car sales, during the next year, will probably be 100 per cent greater, in the opinion of L. G. Dodge, assistant sales manager of the Olds Motor Works of Lansing, Mich., who has just returned from an extensive survey of the South.

The most remarkable thing about the new development of the South, in Mr. Dodge's opinion, is the fact that in the southeast cotton is playing a less and less part in the financial scheme of things. Factories, he says, are springing up everywhere and this development has assured the South of a constant income no matter what condition the cotton market may be in. The inland southern states are still dependent on cotton mainly, he reports.

The average business man in the South, Mr. Dodge says, also shares his view that a business boom is heading in their direction and many automobile dealers are preparing to spend large sums of money in expansion programs to take care of the increased business. As proof of this contention he cites the fact Oldsmobile distributors in Montgomery, Ala.; Birmingham, Ala.; Richmond, Va.; Greenville, N. C.; Baltimore, Md.; Washington, D. C.; Spartanburg, S. C.; are all building new sales rooms and service stations, or have just moved into new quarters.

Nearly 9000 women are members of the American Institute of Banking.

CHEVROLET POINTERS TO THE AUTO CAMPERS

"Practical pointers for auto campers are found in the Chevrolet Review," said Mr. Lepper of The Lepper Motor Company, local Chevrolet dealers.

Although there are more than a million automobiles in use for week-end or month-long journeys, what is the most satisfactory camping outfit remains an open question.

The five-passenger cars with a light outfit two or three or fewer passengers than there is room for, and nothing on board that is not absolutely necessary, has advantages not to be ignored. One of the failings of a beginner auto-camper is to pack too much outfit. Such outfits make work, not play of camping.

"This is just an appetizer taken from the table of contents," said Mr. Lepper, "of the recent issue of the Chevrolet Review."

If you want a full meal of practical pointers for auto campers, call in at the Lepper Company and receive one free.

Good oil—or trouble

Knocks, burned-out bearings, scored cylinders and carbon are all largely due to poor oil.

There's an easy way to get good oil, that lubricates and prolongs your car's life. Insist on Sunoco Motor Oil.

It's made in all necessary types. One of them is scientifically correct for your motor. Every one is wholly distilled, free of all impurities. There is no "cylinder stock" in Sunoco, the gummy residue that forms carbon and starts trouble. That's where Sunoco differs from other oils—there is not a drop of "cylinder stock" in any type of Sunoco.

Sunoco lasts longer and makes your car last longer. You'll have fewer repairs and use less oil with Sunoco in the crankcase. Try it next time. You'll be surprised at your car's power.

You'll find some important facts on lubrication in our booklet, "What's Happening Inside Your Motor." Call, write or phone us for a copy.

STUTZ SIX

Pickup and brakes!—an easy gear shift, and a wheel that responds to a touch. That's what you need to hold your own in traffic-ridden city driving.

And these you get when you buy a Stutz Six. It's as easy to manage when traffic's the thickest as when you open it up on the clear highway.

Full 75 horsepower are at your beck and call with the merest pressure on the accelerator. Controls work like magic without the slightest strain.

The wheelbase, too, is ideal—120 inches—which, combined with the extremely short turning radius, solves many a traffic and parking problem without a single sacrifice of comfort within the car.

Compensating springs 100 inches long, provided with special shock absorbers, assure delightful easy-riding. And so great is the economy in the use of fuel and lubricant that in city driving—with all necessary stopping, starting and idling—the Stutz Six delivers as much mileage per gallon as one usually expects when traveling the open road.

Oil-pressure lubrication—the finest the market affords—keeps out the squeaks easily, while typical Stutz sturdiness here again is proof against rattles and wear and attendant depreciation.

The Stutz Six is a value unequaled in the quality field today. You owe it to yourself to investigate it before you buy. It is a compelling value.

For Those Who Want a Higher-Priced Car

In the magnificent array of Speedway Series Stutz Cars are to be found values quite as compelling in their field as are the Stutz Six models among cars selling in their price range. Priced somewhat higher than the six-cylinder cars, the famous Stutz Speedway models utterly pre-empt that aristocratic market so peculiarly their own. Without counterparts among cars of extreme distinction they are recognized everywhere as America's pre-eminent sport cars. Prices at the factory from $2450 to $3490. Eight body styles. Wide choice of colorings.
